“ Well, Alexis, you let me practice on you as a baby (total disaster-I gave you right back to your mother), look after you one day at the zoo as a little girl ((we were tired) and pretend to be the mother of a teenage girl (that was fun-we shopped forever). I was looking forward to the rest of it...Thank you for everything my beautiful girl. Always...Tamara Rooney (and the Guys)

“ Alexis was a dear friend. So many dreams go with her now, so many cherished memories left behind. She and I would often speak that she was much wiser than her actual years here on earth.

I frequently recall her quotes from her favorite movies.

Rest in peace my friend...you have "No Worries" now!

“ My childhood was define by the visits and play dates with you. I was a tag along in the great friendship you provided my sister, going over to your Bellefontaine Neighbors home, your cave of build-a-bear stuffed animals and awesome toys. Your visits to my house, playing video games hanging outside... it melds together into this wash of happiness and nostalgia. I remember you as funny and talkative. It's my deep regret that we went our separate ways so long ago, but you never faded from my memory-- my sister still has a picture of you. As Alaina's sister I feel such gratitude to your role in her life. As a child a looked up to you and I still, and will always value your friendship.

I wish your family peace and healing. All of my thoughts and prayers.

“ Alexis was a student in my Algebra 2 class when she was in high school. She usually had a smile on her face when we spoke. In recent years, It seemed like we would run into each other a lot at the Disney store or Target. She always made time to stop and chat, and was very sweet to my children. My thoughts are with her family and friends during their time of grief.

“ Back when we all lived in Bellefontaine, it seemed like you'd come over every other day and played with my sisters. I know in recent years we hadn't said a whole lot, at least until you found me on facebook, but I still always kind of felt like you were a member of our family too, like an honorary sister. I will never forget when you and I tried to crack our heads against Donkey Kong 64 (and we both called the guide book Donkey Kong for Dumb Dumbs, haha), and you were a lot of fun to hang out with.

I felt a kinship with you in recent months. I know you were doing your best, and that it was hard, the world constantly pushing back. I wish I'd talked to you more. I feel guilty for not doing so.

I may have just been an older brother of a friend, but you will always be there when I imagine a better time in life. I can't imagine growing up without you having been around, kiddo. Thank you for being a friend to my sisters, and in turn, being like another little sister to me.

It's killing me right now that I am in Nashville but I'm gonna try my best to come back to St. Louis for at least Thursday to say my goodbyes and pay my respects to you and your family. My prayers go out to all of your family and friends. You always found a way to make everyone laugh. You are at peace now. You're probably up there singing Disney songs. The memories and your spirit will always be with me. I love you. <3 Becca.*
