“ Dan,

I remember when I was a kid. I was given a 45 record, and it had the Elton John song "Saturday Night" which I loved for some reason and played it over and over, not even paying attention to the flipside.

Daniel's song was the title. So I played it.

I think you were downstairs getting ready for one of your impromptu plane trips to one of those cool places. I started listening to the song, and it all made me sad. "Daniel's leaving tonight on a plane. I can see the red tail lights, heading for Spain."

I felt a deep sense of loss because big bro was going to be gone a few days (I think I even shed a tear. Imagine that!). But in a couple of days you and your goofy self would be back. And all was good.

Man, we had a great time many times. I and all of us will miss that. Sorry that the last few years weren't so happy, but I know that when we make that big plane ride, it will land in the most awesome beautiful place. Tell all my buds hi, and you know your girls will be fine.

Love you, Brother.

“ Oooh Daddio. How I wish to turn back time and never let this happen...I already miss you entirely entirely entirely too much. What I would give to have you back, you have NO idea!! I want to hear your voice again, I want to hug you again, I want to see your face again....I will forever cherish the memories you have allowed me to have. You were so unique, so creative, and so loving. All that's left in my mind are the good times we shared, and how you have been an impact in so many people's lives. The next thunderstorm I'll be afraid of, the next beautiful sunset I encounter, and the next Beatle's song that I hear are for you, Daddio. And all the rest that follow them- you will be in my mind. You will forever be in my head, my heart, and my soul Dad. I can't wait until I can see your goofy self again. Until then, I hope to be seeing you in my dreams fasha!!! I know you will visit me as much as possible. I hope you are in good hands. Watch over us three girls, and the rest of your family!!! We all miss you like crazy. I love you SO much it hurts!!!!###imported-begin##Kim Winkler###imported-end##
