“ I can honestly say "I know how you feel" as I lost Mom on the 14th of this month. Like you, I also know she is happy being with Dad again after 26 years. I regret that we have hardly gotten to know each other but know that I loved your Mom very much. She and Jim are just a few months apart in age. When they would come to visit in Trammel, they would stay with us. Jim and I were dating at the time and we had such a good time, playing canasta, going bowling and being introduced to Pizza for the first time. You can imagine the hunt for pepperoni in Dickenson county in the early 60's. Take care of each other as you have someone to share the sorrow with. Our heartfelt symphony, Love Trula and Jim##imported-begin##Trula and Jim Burke##imported-end##

“ Mom fought and won a horrendous battle during seven months of hospitalization following surgery. The Lord blessed her, her family and friends and gave all of us two wonderful months at home following her hospital stay. One of mom’s doctors told her she was a miracle and truly it was a miracle that made it possible for her to come home. Unfortunately for us, The Lord decided she had fought long enough and she should receive her reward. He took her Home on September 25, 2008. Momma Joyce and Papa Bill lived their lives together showing others the unconditional Love of God. Serving him faithfully in teaching Sunday school, working in children’s ministries and youth ministries alike. Her demonstration of faith to God and devotion to her family showed the real and personal relationship she has with her Lord. Her devotion to caring also extended to over forty years of child care in which she again showed to hundreds the unconditional Love of God. She has waited for 30 years to see her mother and father and two years to see Dad again. We cannot understand or even begin to imagine what the last two years have felt like for her. They were married over 51 years and she missed him more and more every day. What a glorious reunion and time they are having together now. We miss her so much now but when we meet again in Heaven our time apart now will be as though only a moment; with eternity together at the Throne of God. Thank you for your support and prayers through this very difficult time.

All of our love,
Keith, Gena, Kaleb and Jared
