“ Ryley,

I am so sorry that your time here was so short. I met you once, shortly after your birth. You were so adorable with your chubby cheeks. You slept the entire time we played with your toes and admired that full head of hair. Sweet baby, I always thought we would have more time. It's not fair that the Lord gets to know you forever while we barely got the chance. I suppose that's just our selfish nature. Just know that your time here has touched so many. We have learned to love each other better, appreciate more the time we have together , and never take anything for granted. You were loved and cherished, and you will continue to be, until we meet you again.

Love,

Mandi, Amaya and Olivia
